reports on the

Kola Inlet

1. Attachment 1, [redacted] contains sightings of submarines at the mouth of Kola Inlet and in the vicinity of Polyarnyy; unidentified naval vessels at Rosta, in Guba Vayenga, and Guba Tyuva; four-engined swept-wing jet aircraft over Kola Inlet; possible buoys for a torpedo net in Guba Vayenga; and gun emplacements on Mys Letinskiy. Two destroyers observed at N 69-30, E 35-00 [redacted]

50X1-HUM

[redacted] these vessels had flush decks and thus thought that they belonged to the KOTLIN class.

2. Attachment 2, [redacted] contains sightings of unidentified naval vessels and four or five submarines at Rosta.

50X1-HUM

3. Attachment 3, [redacted] contains sightings of four possible RIGA-class escort vessels entering Kola Inlet, and of two submarines and two naval vessels resembling KOTLIN-class destroyers [redacted] at Murmansk. A vessel observed at Murmansk which resembled a SVERDLOV-class cruiser [redacted] was also described, and a description of the harbor at Murmansk was included.

50X1-HUM

4. Attachment 4, [redacted] contains sightings of three cruisers in Vayenga Bay. One cruiser, [redacted] had two triple gun turrets on the forecastle, two smokestacks, a break to the main deck at the forward stack, and two triple gun turrets on the afterdeck. The other two cruisers, [redacted] had two triple gun turrets on the forecastle, two smokestacks, a break to the afterdeck aft of the after smokestack, and two triple gun turrets on the afterdeck. A sketch (which is included) of the deck line of these latter two vessels indicated that they were SVERDLOV-class cruisers.

NAVAL: a) [redacted] at a position 69° 30' N - 35° 00' E, two medium-large naval vessels were observed as they seemingly engaged in some sort of maneuvers, as they sailed around on varying courses.

Description:

The ships were flush decked, had a gun turret forward that had two barrels, followed by a bridge, a mast, a smokestack, torpedo-ejection tubes, a mast with a very large radar-like antenna screen at the top, a smokestack, torpedo-ejection tubes and a gun-turret on the after-deck like that on the forecastle.

it resembled an ordinary submarine.

50X1-HUM

e) a number of floats were observed in Vaenga Bay were buoys for a torpedo-net. Inside the obstacle were four very large naval vessels lying at anchor. Three of the vessels were identical and appeared to be very modern, while the fourth appeared to be somewhat older and was evidently the same size.

50X1-HUM

f) in the naval shipping yard at Rosta, a very large naval ship was observed that was identical to the modern vessels in Vaenga. The vessel had scaffolding around the masts and smokestacks, and was ^{partially} red-lead painted. The ship appeared to be undergoing a thorough overhauling.

No submarines were observed at Rosta.

50X1-HUM

AIRCRAFT ACTIVITY: in the Kola Fjord there was great activity on the part of very large jet-airplanes. The planes flew in over the Fjord and appeared to land on an approximate southerly course at an airbase south of Vaenga.

Description: The airplanes had wings angled sharply back, and had four jet engines on the wings.

Some of the planes appeared to land behind the mountains southeast of Letinski Point.

SHORE INSTALLATIONS: The ship passed near Letinski Pt. on its way eastward. On the mountain near the point were observed several large guns in various places. The guns were placed in positions that were very difficult to sight.

1. NAVAL: [redacted] two very large naval vessels, lying beside each other, were observed at the pier at Rosta.

50X1-HUM

50X1-HUM

Description: The vessels seemed to be identical. [redacted] the ships were in for overhauling and were partially red-lead painted. The ships had ^wo gun turrets aft. Around the masts and smoke-stacks there were wooden scaffolds all the way to the top. The scaffolding was of wood and had a gray-brown color as if the wood had aged.

Four or five submarines also lay at Rosta. The subs lay in such a way that [redacted] The subs [redacted] passing Sedlovati, four naval vessel entered the Kola Fjord at a speed of about 20 to 25 knots.

50X1-HUM

Description: All of the vessels belonged to the same class and were about two thousand tons. There was only one mast and one smokestack. On being shown the vessel silhouettes, [redacted] the vessels resembled the RIGA class.

50X1-HUM

f. Somewhat later, [redacted] east of Toros, eight or possibly ten MTB's went by, into the Kola Fjord. [redacted]

2. THE HARBOR:

50X1-HUM

a. [redacted] Pier No. 10 was approximately 800 feet long, and [redacted] the depth along the southwest end was 26 feet.

b. The apatite was stored in a silo on the pier. [redacted] the silo took fifty thousand tons. Two belts brought the cargo to the ship from the silo.

50X1-HUM

c. The silo was the height of an ordinary three-storey house. Railroad tracks went from the top of the silo and in towards land on the pier. From the railroad cars, the apatite was tipped through openings at the top of the silo. This also continued while the ship took on cargo.
